I -- SILVER STAR. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Memorandum 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, as amended, a Silver Star is awarded to the following enlisted men of this command:

Staff Sergeant Edward M Culligan, 33668138, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action near * * *, Germany on 26 February 1945. When the advance of his company was halted by heavy enemy small arms fire emanating from a house on the outskirts of the village of * * *, Sergeant Culligan, a squad leader, crawled forward and threw two grenades through a window. He then rejoined his squad, and participated in the final assault on this strongpoint, which resulted in the capture of eleven enemy soldiers. Four Germans were found dead near the window through which Sergeant Culligan threw his grenades. He was wounded during the final assault, and evacuated. His courageous initiative exemplifies the high traditions of the military service. Entered military service from Pennsylvania.

Staff Sergeant John Rabis, 31042325, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action near * * *, Germany on 25 February 1945. When forward elements of his company had become pinned down by heavy machine gun fire emanating from a building to the front, Sergeant Rabis, a squad leader, armed with an M-1 rifle, voluntarily and alone crawled forward to the hostile position. After killing three enemy soldiers who were resisting his advance, he proceeded for a distance of 100 yards under intense enemy fire to gain a point from where he was able to hurl several hand grenades through a window, silencing the enemy weapon and enabling his unit to continue the attack. His intrepidity is in accord with high military traditions. Entered military service from Connecticut.

Sergeant Kenneth L Gaines, 34826664, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action near * * *, Germany on 8 March 1945. When members of his platoon lay in an open field prevented from advancing by enemy machine gun fire, Sergeant Gaines, an assistant squad leader, ran to a ditch, crawled to within fifteen yards of the enemy emplacement, threw a hand grenade, then charged the position, firing his sub-machine gun as he moved forward. He killed the enemy machine gunner and wounded other members of the crew. Sergeant Gaines' intrepid action made it possible for his unit to continue its advance and capture the village of * * *, with minimum casualties. Entered military service from Georgia.

II -- BRONZE STAR MEDAL. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Memorandum 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, as amended, a Bronze Star Medal, is awarded, posthumously, to the following enlisted man:

Sergeant Haskell L Morris, 18002686, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States near * * *, Germany on 4 March 1945. Intense concentrations of enemy machine gun and rifle fire forced the attacking platoon of Company C, * * * Infantry, to make a limited withdrawal from forward positions in an open field studded with barbed wire entanglements. Sergeant Morris, a radioman, voluntarily exposed himself to the enemy fire in order to cut three strands on each of three barbed wire fences, providing a route of withdrawal through which the platoon moved to cover. His heroic action enabled the platoon to reorganize and subsequently launch a successful attack in this area. Sergeant Morris was killed in action on the following day. Entered military service from Oklahoma.

III -- BRONZE STAR MEDAL. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Memorandum 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, as amended, a Bronze Star Medal is awarded to the following officers, now missing in action:
