Private First Class John E Tahany, 32799901, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in the * * * sector, Normandy, France, 14 July 1944. When the regular radio operator of his company was wounded, Private Tahany assumed operation of the portable radio and accompanied the commanding officer, a platoon leader and a platoon sergeant through heavy enemy machine gun and sniper fire which wounded the commanding officer and the platoon leader, leaving the platoon sergeant uninjured. The same burst, at close range, severely wounded Private Tahany, but despite the severity of his wounds which resulted a few moments later in his death, Private Tahany called to his comrades to form a line to return the enemy fire and cover the withdrawal of the platoon sergeant. With a last effort, he returned to the safety of his own lines the radio to which he had clung and over which was made the call that brought artillery fire to destroy the enemy positions. Private Tahany's devotion to duty, disregard for personal safety, his personal bravery and gallant actions, reflect upon him the highest credit, and merit him a deserved place in the annals of fighting infantrymen. Entered military service from New York.

II -- SILVER STAR. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, a Silver Star is awarded to the following enlisted men of this command:

Staff Sergeant Walter A Hefner, 20720893, Cavalry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in the vicinity of * * *, France, 22 August 1944. In reconnoitering for the advance of the * * * Combat Team near * * *, the First Platoon, * * * Reconnaissance Troop, Mechanized, was subjected to heavy machine gun fire at a point near a canal, the bridge over which had been demolished. Having located the enemy emplacement, and determined that the mission of his unit be accomplished, Sergeant Hefner, a platoon sergeant, crawled to the canal, and, swimming across it under enemy observation, machine gun and grenade fire, reached the other side. Under cover of available undergrowth, he maneuvered into position behind the strongpoint and threw several grenades into the emplacement, whereupon six enemy soldiers left the position and surrendered to him. After destroying the enemy gun, Sergeant Hefner returned with his prisoners. The heroic actions of Sergeant Hefner constitute such gallantry in action as to reflect the highest credit upon his character as a soldier and upon the military service. Entered military service from Kansas.

Private Paul W Clayton, 14063977, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in the vicinity of * * *, France, 16 August 1944. On the morning of 16 August, despite clear weather, flat terrain and direct enemy 20mm fire, Private Clayton, an ammunition bearer, volunteered to go forward as observer for his mortar section. He crawled forward and successfully directed fire which destroyed two enemy 20mm guns and an enemy ammunition dump. Private Clayton was wounded during the course of the afternoon, but remained at his post until darkness. His gallant actions and disregard for personal welfare or safety were an inspiration to members of his section, and assisted materially in the capture of * * * by our forces. Entered military service from Tennessee.

Technical Sergeant George A Puskas, 36119337, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, 15 to 23 August 1944. On 15-16 August, Sergeant Puskas, a platoon sergeant of intelligence and reconnaissance platoon, led his group in its mission of screening the unprotected flank of Task Force "S" advancing from * * * to seize * * *. His aggressiveness and efficiency in leading his unit materially facilitated not only the task force's move of over one hundred miles in approximately twenty-four hours for the capture of its objective, but, on 20 August, on a similar mission, were factors in enabling an armored group to move seventy miles and capture its objective in less than twelve hours. On 23 August, while leading his group, it was inadvertently attacked by friendly aircraft. In the first of three separate strafings, Sergeant Puskas was severely wounded, but admonished his men to stay under cover rather than come to his assistance. He later died of his wounds. The aggressive leadership of Sergeant Puskas, his devotion to duty and to his comrades, reflect great credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Michigan.

Staff Sergeant David A Goodell, 20724753, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in the vicinity of * * *, France, on 12 August 1944. Sergeant Goodell assumed command of his mortar section after his platoon leader and platoon sergeant became casualties. His consistently accurate fire direction enabled the company to accomplish its mission and occupy its objective on Hill Number 310 with a minimum of casualties. When Sergeant Goodell then went forward to report to his company commander, he was killed by enemy artillery fire. His courage, initiative and devotion to duty reflect credit upon his character as a soldier, and upon the military service. Entered military service from Kansas.

Staff Sergeant Lawrence E Landwehr, 37070366, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in the * * * River sector, France, 31 July 1944. When an intense concentration of enemy fire forced his platoon to withdraw, leaving two wounded men lying exposed to further injury and possible death, Sergeant Landwehr, a squad leader, disregarding the enemy fire, and assisted by two other enlisted men, improvised a litter, crossed the dangerous terrain and evacuated the wounded men. The initiative, courage and resourcefulness of Sergeant Landwehr reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Kansas.

Sergeant Vivian F Hoover, 37145006, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in the vicinity of * * *, France, on 12 August 1944. After personally reconnoitering several routes in order to reach the forward slope of Hill Number 310, where his squad had been assigned the mission of establishing an outpost, Sergeant Hoover found that the only available route was exposed to direct enemy artillery fire. He chose to be the first to use the route, and was mortally wounded by enemy shell fire as he neared his objective. His leadership ability, courage and disregard for personal safety reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Missouri.

Technician Fifth Grade Leslie B Vennard, 6858853, Infantry, United States Army, for exceptionally meritorious conduct in performance of outstanding service on 10 August 1944. Entered military service from Iowa.

Private First Class Everett P Dabbs, 36052641, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, in the vicinity of * * *, France, on 11 August 1944. Private Dabbs was a member of a wire team assigned the mission of establishing communications between the command posts of the * * * Infantry and the * * * Infantry, scheduled to launch a coordinated attack against the enemy the following morning. Despite the fact that the exact location of the * * * Infantry Command Post was not known, and that little information was available concerning disposition of enemy troops in the intervening area, the wire team succeeded in reaching its objective. While returning to the * * * Infantry Command Post, laying telephone wire, the wire team was attacked by enemy aircraft. Acting with disregard for personal safety, they continued on their mission and succeeded in completing the communications system on schedule. His courage, devotion to duty and disregard for personal safety reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Illinois.

Private First Class Lawrence G Pearce, 37189235, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in the * * * sector, Normandy, France, 17 July 1944. When front-line platoons of his company became exposed on their right flanks, Private Pearce voluntarily went forward through enemy artillery and small arms fire in order to establish contact with the front-line platoons and to determine where support was needed, so that he would be enabled to guide into position the two squads ordered to cover the exposed flanks. He then guided the two squads into position, but while returning from the successful completion of his mission, he was killed by enemy artillery fire. The devotion to duty displayed by Private Pearce, his disregard for personal safety and tenacity of purpose, reflect great credit upon his character as a soldier and upon the military service. When Technician Ague was a member of an engineer reconnaissance patrol together with two officers and three other enlisted men near * * * , he observed enemy troops retreating to the east bank of the * * * River, where they commenced to dig in, apparently intending to prevent passage of our forces across the bridge, and with a view to eventual demolition of the bridge. Technician Ague and one of the officers set up a machine gun on the left side of the bridge, while the other officer and an enlisted man set up a machine gun on the right side of the bridge and the two remaining soldiers deployed as riflemen. They delivered such effective fire that the enemy force of approximately thirty men was forced to withdraw. The patrol then held the bridge until arrival of infantry support, enabling our forces to effect an immediate crossing of the river which may otherwise have presented a serious obstacle. His courageous actions, resourcefulness and initiative reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from New York.

Technician Fifth Grade Clements J Betzen, 20723973, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, in the vicinity of * * * , France, on 11 September 1944. Technician Betzen, a wireman, accompanied by another noncommissioned officer, traversed open ground exposed to heavy concentrations of aimed enemy fire, and located and repaired a break in vital communication lines, thereby enabling the battalion commander to continue direction of an assault crossing of the * * * River. Technician Betzen's courage, devotion to duty, and disregard for personal safety reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Kansas.

Technician Fifth Grade John M Bungard, 6931092, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, in the vicinity of * * * , France, on 11 August 1944. Technician Bungard was a member of a wire team assigned the mission of establishing communications between the command posts of the * * * Infantry and the * * * Infantry, scheduled to launch a coordinated attack against the enemy the following morning. Despite the fact that the exact location of the * * * Infantry Command Post was not known, and that little information was available concerning disposition of enemy troops in the intervening area, the wire team succeeded in reaching its objective. While returning to the * * * Infantry Command Post, laying telephone wire, the wire team was attacked by enemy aircraft. Acting with disregard for personal safety, they continued on their mission and succeeded in completing the communication system on schedule. His courage, devotion to duty and disregard for personal safety reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Kansas.

Technician Fifth Grade William S Davis, 34664260, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States at * * * , France, 19 September 1944. Technician Davis volunteered to drive a lone tank into * * * , where infantry was then pinned down, for an after-dark attack. Under unusually adverse conditions, the mission of the single tank was to be extremely hazardous. Upon entering the town, the tank had its turret hatch blown off and the officer in command wounded, but the tank succeeded in destroying numerous enemy-occupied buildings. The daring and skillful operation of his armored vehicle by Technician Davis contributed toward the breaking of enemy resistance, as a result of which the infantry was relieved and the town captured. Entered military service from North Carolina.
