I -- SILVER STAR. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, a Silver Star is awarded, posthumously, to the following officer and enlisted man:

Second Lieutenant John M Diekmann, 0494648, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action near * * * , France, on 12 September 1944. Shortly after Company L, * * * Infantry, had established a command post in a wooded area on a hill near * * * , France, a group of Germans attacked the command post. While several soldiers engaged the Germans, Lieutenant Diekmann, a platoon leader, moved out to flank the attacking force, and directed artillery fire designed to prevent further enemy penetrations into the area. All of the attacking Germans were killed or captured, and the command post secured against further attacks. Lieutenant Diekmann was mortally wounded by enemy fire during this engagement. His courage, coolness and quick thinking under harrowing circumstances are in accord with the military traditions of the United States. Entered military service from New Jersey.

Staff Sergeant Thaine J Hale, 20721516, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in the vicinity of * * * , France, on 18 September 1944. Sergeant Hale was one of a group of eighty soldiers of the First Battalion, * * * Infantry, encircled by enemy forces within the town of * * * and forced to take refuge, along with twenty prisoners they had captured, in barns. Realizing the seriousness of the situation, Sergeant Hale, a platoon guide, voluntarily and alone, made his way through enemy lines, met an American tank and, riding on the outside, directed the crew to the vicinity of the trapped force. Fire from this tank dispersed the enemy and provided covering fire which enabled the eighty soldiers to rejoin their units with their prisoners. Sergeant Hale was killed by fire from an enemy tank during the withdrawal from the area. His gallant actions, initiative, and utter disregard for personal safety enabled a large group of his comrades-in-arms to extricate themselves from a precarious position. Entered military service from Nebraska.

II -- SILVER STAR. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, a Silver Star is awarded to the following officer of this command:

First Lieutenant William P Sheehy, 01325332, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in the vicinity of * * * , France, on 26 August 1944. While on a reconnaissance mission, Lieutenant Sheehy, a platoon leader, Antitank Company, * * * Infantry, observed enemy troops in a field. He directed accurate long range fire upon the enemy until the enemy finally retreated into the woods. Lieutenant Sheehy then organized and led a patrol into the vicinity, and captured 42 prisoners. He directed fire upon the woods, then led a patrol therein and returned with more prisoners, and repeated this procedure until all Germans in the area had been killed or captured. The aggressive leadership, initiative, and resourcefulness of Lieutenant Sheehy resulted in the capture of 360 Germans and large quantities of war materiel. Entered military service from Nebraska.

III -- BRONZE STAR MEDAL. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, a Bronze Star Medal is awarded to the following officer, now missing in action:

First Lieutenant James T Cecka, 01293717, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, in the vicinity of * * * , France, on 19 and 20 September 1944. Lieutenant Cecka, Commanding Officer, Company I, * * * Infantry, led his company in an attack which resulted in the capture of the town of * * * , France, on 19 September. Although wounded in the leg shortly after the attack started, he refused treatment or evacuation and remained in active command of his company. When enemy forces launched strong counterattacks under cover of a heavy fog on the following day, Lieutenant Cecka directed defensive artillery fire from his command post so effectively that all enemy attacks were repulsed. Lieutenant Cecka's dynamic leadership, tactical initiative and utter disregard for personal welfare or safety reflect credit upon his character as an officer and upon the military service. He became missing in action in a subsequent engagement with the enemy. Entered military service from Minnesota.

Sergeant Smith was a member of a patrol assigned the mission of reconnoitering an area beyond the * * * River prior to a full-scale crossing by the First Battalion, * * * Infantry. The mission was singularly successful and, after working two hours in enemy territory, the patrol had ascertained the best possible route of advance for the regimental crossing, and returned with a plot of enemy positions. Sergeant Desrochers received a painful wound during an enemy counterattack in the * * * River sector. Because of the shortage of medical aid men, he refused treatment stating that many men were more seriously wounded. Despite his wounds, Sergeant Desrochers assisted battalion aid men in taking care of wounded soldiers in the vicinity, until forced to go to the aid station because of loss of blood. Even then, while returning to the aid station, he assisted two other wounded soldiers to the battalion aid station with him. Sergeant Marbut climbed out of the protection of his destroyer, and, while exposed to enemy fire of all types, administered first aid to the wounded men, and placed the more seriously wounded of the two in the tank destroyer. While so engaged, Sergeant Marbut was himself wounded. His courageous actions in placing the welfare of his comrades-in-arms above his personal safety, reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. When an artillery liaison plane reported a wounded soldier to be lying in a position exposed to heavy enemy machine gun and small arms fire, Private Meadors, assisted by three other enlisted men, voluntarily went forward and successfully evacuated the wounded man. Private Meadors' courageous actions reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Tennessee.

V -- BRONZE STAR MEDAL (OAK-LEAF CLUSTER). Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, in addition to the Bronze Star Medal previously awarded, a bronze Oak-Leaf Cluster is awarded to the following officer of this command:

Major Carlyle F McDannel, 0416101, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, in the * * * River sector, east of * * * , France, on 10 September 1944. Shortly after the Second Battalion, * * * Infantry, launched an attack designed to seize and hold a bridge over the * * * River, the enemy placed a terrific concentration of fire of all types on the area, destroyed the bridge, then counterattacked sharply. Upon receiving word of the confused situation in this area, Major McDannel, battalion executive officer, immediately went forward, assumed command, arranged for evacuation of the battalion commander who had become a casualty, then remained in the area despite continued concentrations of enemy fire, coordinating the withdrawal of the battalion to high ground west of the river. His level-headed leadership, complete disregard for personal safety, and effective coordination of action under the most harrowing of circumstances, reflect credit upon his character as an officer and upon the military service. Entered military service from Nebraska.
