I. SILVER STAR. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, a Silver Star is awarded, posthumously, to the following enlisted men:

Sergeant George J Dondelinger, 20726393, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in the vicinity of * * *, France, on 8 October 1944. During the course of the advance of his organization with the mission of capturing the town of * * *, Sergeant Dondelinger's platoon was pinned down by intense fire from a machine gun emplaced on high ground to the front. Several unsuccessful attempts had been made to neutralize this enemy position. Upon his own initiative and under heavy fire, Sergeant Dondelinger led a patrol of four men against the enemy weapon. Upon approaching the enemy position, Sergeant Dondelinger drew enemy fire upon himself by exposing himself on the flank of the position, while he directed the other members of his patrol around the other flank. He was mortally wounded, but his gallant self-sacrifice enabled his comrades to outflank and destroy the enemy gun position which had held up the advance of the platoon. Sergeant Dondelinger's courage, leadership, devotion to duty and disregard for personal safety constitute such gallantry in action as to be in accord with the military traditions of the United States. Entered military service from Kansas.

Sergeant Stevenson J Druin, 35461504, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in * * *, France, on 10 October 1944. After his organization had succeeded in entering the village of * * * against stubborn enemy resistance, Sergeant Druin was a member of a patrol assigned the mission of routing several small enemy groups from various buildings. As he advanced with his patrol, Sergeant Druin and his comrades were pinned down by fire from an enemy strongpoint, whereupon Sergeant Druin, an assistant squad leader, with complete disregard for personal safety, climbed to the roof of a building and from that vantage point threw three grenades into the enemy strongpoint, forcing its occupants to seek other cover. As he reached for his rifle in order to fire upon the dispersing enemy, Sergeant Druin was killed by enemy sniper fire. Sergeant Druin's gallant actions enabled his patrol to complete its mission successfully. Entered military service from Ohio.

II — SILVER STAR. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, a Silver Star is awarded to the following officer of this command:

First Lieutenant Thomas V Mullen, 01325590, Infantry, United States Army, for gallantry in action in * * *, France, on 10 October 1944. While engaged in mopping-up operations in the village of * * *, Lieutenant Mullen, a platoon leader, learned that an enemy artillery observer and several snipers armed with a machine gun were located atop a high building affording excellent observation. Without hesitation, Lieutenant Mullen climbed to the rooftop of an adjoining building, crawled along the roof with a light machine gun to a point within twenty yards of the enemy group, and opened fire, killing all four of the Germans. His courageous initiative and complete disregard for personal safety resulted in the elimination of the focal point of enemy resistance in the village. Entered military service from Massachusetts.

Staff Sergeant Thomas E Pizzuti, 33677951, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, in * * * , France, on 11 October 1944. While proceeding through the streets of the village of * * * with the mission of mopping-up remnants of the enemy still holding out in the village, a squad of riflemen was pinned down by fire from a well concealed enemy emplacement. After an unsuccessful attempt to rout the enemy with hand grenades, Sergeant Pizzuti, a squad leader, exposed himself to enemy fire in an attempt to ascertain the exact disposition of the enemy group. He was mortally wounded but his squad, inspired by his heroic self-sacrifice, succeeded in routing the enemy from their stronghold. Entered military service from Pennsylvania.

IV — BRONZE STAR MEDAL. Pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, and Circular 6, Headquarters Third United States Army, 26 April 1944, a Bronze Star Medal is awarded to the following officers and enlisted men of this command:

Two tank destroyers were engaged with the enemy in the town of * * * , when one of the vehicles was disabled by enemy fire, three of its members killed and three wounded. The accompanying tank destroyer was then surrounded by the enemy who killed its commander and forced its crew to abandon the vehicle. In order to prevent its falling into enemy hands, Captain Baker made his way to the tank destroyer, and while exposed to enemy artillery and small arms fire, entered the vehicle and drove it back to friendly lines. Captain Baker's intrepid action reflects credit upon his character as an officer. Entered military service from North Carolina.

When his platoon leader became a casualty, Sergeant Hawkins took charge, skillfully directed his platoon in repulsing an enemy counterattack then in progress near * * * and, taking advantage of the enemy disorganization, promptly led an attack which succeeded in driving the enemy from the area. He then reorganized his platoon and set up a defensive position, which he held despite repeated enemy counterattacks. By his outstanding leadership, Sergeant Hawkins has proved himself a credit to the military service. Entered military service from Oklahoma.

Technical Sergeant Richard A Naasz, 20726424, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in the vicinity of * * *, France, on 10 October 1944. When his platoon leader became wounded during a heavy enemy attack against defensive positions at * * *, Sergeant Naasz, a platoon sergeant, moved among his men, reorganized them, placed them advantageously in order to increase their fire power, and although exposed to intense enemy machine gun, 88mm and tank fire, inspiringly led his platoon in playing an effective part in repulsing the enemy attack. Sergeant Naasz's courage, disregard for personal safety and his leadership reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Kansas.

Technical Sergeant George H Schimmel, 35576944 (then staff sergeant), Infantry, United States Army, for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in France during the periods 9 to 15 July and 15 September to 10 October 1944. Undaunted by the occurrence, Sergeant Arzt brought both vehicles to safety. His initiative, tenacity of purpose and disregard for personal safety resulted in saving a valuable item of military equipment, and reflect credit upon his character as a soldier. Entered military service from Nebraska.

Staff Sergeant Lawrence B O'Brien, 37002837, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States near * * *, France, on 10 October 1944. During an enemy counterattack on the village of * * *, Sergeant O'Brien drove a prime mover which was endangered by direct enemy tank fire to a place of safety, loaded the vehicle with ammunition at a nearby depot and, in the face of intense enemy fire, retraced his route to an antitank gun position, materially contributing to the repulse of the German attack. Sergeant Edward J Maloney, 32855403, Infantry, United States Army, for heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States near * * * , France, on 10 October 1944. In an effort to rout the enemy from a strongly fortified position in a house at * * * , Sergeant Maloney made five trips along an alley behind the building in order to outflank the German stronghold. Undaunted by the fact that he was repulsed on four occasions and that the enemy could hear his approach whenever he walked across the debris that covered the alley, he made his way forward a fifth time and in the face of intense enemy fire, threw a number of grenades into the house, killing and wounding several of its occupants.
